

DIDJA KNOW?

Newsletter

What is Attached or Detached?

You search for a listing, and you see SFR/A and SFR/D. Do you think the listing refers to an Attached/Detached Garage or Structure for a Single Family Residence?

Let's clarify this common misconception. The abbreviation next to the property type refers to the Structure.

An Attached (A) dwelling unit reports if the property is attached to another on at least one side. Or Detached (D) unit is surrounded by freestanding walls and is generally sited on a separate lot.

If your client wants to know if the Garage is attached or detached, go to the Agent Medium or the Agent Full display/report to see this information.

[Example of the Agent Full Display]

To search for an attached or detached garage, find the Garage Attached Field on the Residential Detail Search Page under Exterior Features.

[Example of the Residential Detail Search Page]